Report on the project

Summer School "Ethics, Quantity and Quality Assurance in Agriculture, Food Production and Food Technology" funded by the CASEE fund for incentives

Project Coordinator: University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Agriculture

Partners:

- 1) University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences Vienna, Austria (BOKU)
- 2) University of Zagreb, Croatia (UNIZG)
- 3) Czech University of Life Sciences Prague, Czech Republic (CULS)
- 4) Warsaw University of Life Sciences, Poland (WULS)
- 5) Szent Istvan University, Hungary (SZIE)
- 6) Banat's University of Agricultural Sciences and Veterinary Medicine Timișoara (BUASVMT)

Aim: The aim of this school is to enable the students to gain new knowledge and broaden their practical skills in order to maintain an in-depth understanding of topics related to the aspects in disciplines they have been taught. The project aims to combine lectures, workshops and field trips in order to provide an unforgettable experience for the students. In addition, it will fulfill all the expectations in the legal and scientific context of the implementation of the EU Strategy for the Danube region. The courses and the field trips are focusing on the Vojvodina Province, most productive agricultural area in Serbia and also well known for its rich multicultural heritage. This will ensure broadening the scope of the school with intercultural aspects and analysis of their influence in terms of Ethics, Quantity and Quality Assurance in Agriculture, Food Production and Food Technology in the Danube region.
